In Honor & Remembrance

Richard Robert Hanson

“The Father of Festivals”

March 28, 1925 – September 26, 2018

To Richard

A symbol.
If I were an artist
I would paint upon a tremendous canvas.
Boundless in its content,
Having no beginning
And no end—
Only plane after plane
Of swirling color, In this color:
All the violence, all the futility,
All the hopelessness,
All the struggle,
That has been & ever can be
In life.
In the midst
Of this seething, raw, throbbing Mass
cupped in two hands-
Shielding, protecting, gentle.
Tender, unyielding, balanced & Steady.
Against it all
Two Hands
Protecting a small pulse
That beats
Warm, alive
There in the palm of the hand.
